

Managing Wetlands for Biodiversity

April 10, 2010 — Saturday

8:30am to 3:00pm

A Conference for Land Owners, Land Managers and Wetland Enthusiasts

Come join Ohio's wetland leaders and experts for a day to enjoy wetlands and focus on the management practices that maximize the biological diversity of wetland systems. This workshop is open to the public with a special invitation to those involved in the management or conservation of wetlands.

Featuring . . .

Greg Lipps, known throughout the state as an enthusiastic teacher and amphibian expert.

John Mack, developed wetland assessment methods with the Ohio EPA and currently Chief of Natural Resources for Cleveland Metroparks.

Dr. Jim Bissell, Curator of Botany, Coordinator of Natural Areas, and Director of the Center for Conservation & Biodiversity at the Cleveland Museum of Natural History

Field Trips Touring Local Wetlands . . .

Audubon Wetlands Preserve
Gilliom-Cherp Nature Park
Black Fork Bottoms

Agenda and Registration . . .

Friends of Wetlands: events.fowl.org

Location for Presentation and Lunch . . .

Mill Restaurant of Buehler's Market
1055 Sugarbush Square, Ashland, OH 44805
(on US 250 near Interstate 71)

$25 Registration

Includes:
Breakfast Rolls, Coffee,
Lunch, and Field Trip

Attendance Is Limited

Place Your Reservation Today!

Sponsored by . . .

Friends of Wetlands and Greater Mohican Audubon Society

